The Adventures HERCULES

ADVENTURE NO. 4.

HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE AMAZONS.

His next labor was of a more delicate kind. Admenta, the daughter of Eurystheus, longed to obtain the girdle of the queen of the Amazons, and Eurystheus ordered Hercules to go and get it. The Amazons were a nation of women. They were very warlike and held several flourishing cities. It was their custom to bring up only the female children; the boys were either sent away to the neighboring nations or put to death. Hercules was accompanied by a number of volunteers, and after various adventures, at last reached the country of the Amazons. Hippolyta, the queen, received him kindly, and consented to yield him her girdle, but Juno, taking the form of an Amazon, went and persuaded the rest that the strangers were carrying off their queen. They instantly armed and came in great numbers down to the ship. Hercules, thinking that Hippolyta had acted treacherously, slew her, and taking her girdle, made sail homeward.

The next adventure of Hercules will be printed Saturday evening and Sunday morning. Watch for it, as the boy or girl who brings the nine adventures of the great hero to us first will be presented with a pair of "Hereules" Shoes free. These shoes, like our Greek hero, are noted for their strength.

GREAT FIND MADE IN PIOCHE GROUND

General Manager Murray C. Godbe confirmed the report on Tuesday that the Centennial Pioche company had encountered water and ore in the lime at a depth of 510 feet in the shaft which necessitates the installation of more powerful hoisting equipment and water handling machinery. Mr. Godbe further stated that the equipment had teen purchased yesterday; that it would be shipped to Pioche today, ar riving Monday. Inasmuch as word to the above effect was not received until Tuesday morning, this quick work or the part of the company is directly in pressed a short time ago to go after the Centennial resources without gioves, and in the most approved work manlike manner.

The new equipment consists of a 50-horsepower hoist, new cage, a complete pumping plant and all auxil-laries, the equipment standing the company a tidy cash sum. The sig-nificance and importance of the discovery made in the shaft are great t othose familiar with Pioche. The same geological conditions of the camp are considerably higher in other this being the first time that cre in shale has been found within the permanent water level. Engineers have predicted in the past that such ore, when found, would be extremely rich, and the Centennial company is now on the verge of demonstrating the truth of this prophecy.

ELLEN BEACH YAW "THE AMERICAN SINGER."

Ellen Beach Yaw, the famous Amer ican Nightingale, whose extraordinary and beautiful voice, has been heard around the world would seem to have best claim to the much coveted "The American Singer.

It is apparent at once that any wom-an who lays claim to this title must base her claim upon a wide range of artistic accomplishment.

The singer must reach the hearts of the common people, that is, she must know how to interpret the simple ballads, and the old-folks' songs, dear to the hearts of those to whom higher music is but an empty name, The singer must be a mistress of the modern school of song-writing, the emotionalism of Strauss, Hugo Wolfd and others whose simple songs, by the very stress of powerful thought, become tense dramatic poems, The singer must be a mistress of the art of singing as laid down in the old Italian school, the field of "Bel Canto." The singer must have triumphed in opera-not in some ob-scure opera house of Italy, but in at least one of the great opera houses of the world—The Metropolitan, which is the greatest of all opera houses, preferred.

Can you think of any other singer, save Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, who has done all those things?
Miss Yaw and company will be heard at the Ogden Theatre next Sun-day evening, Nov. 29th.

Thanksgiving matinee at the Orpheum.

For the first time in the history of the American stage, a first-class dra matic production is on tour with a number of celebrated acrobats and clownus playing the leading parts, and will be seen in Ogden.

The play is Frederick Thompson's big production, Polly of the Circus, Margaret Mayo with the capt! vating and fascinating little Ida St Leon as the circus rider

"Polly of the Circus" deals with a girl bareback rider who is injured during a performance in a small town and is left behind to recuperate. Her period of convalescence is spent in the home of the village preacher, with whom she falls in love. Later, for rea sons explained in the play, she returns to the circus which makes it neces sary to present a tent show in full operation on the stage of the theater. To give the necessary touch of realism, Mr. Thompson has engaged a number of the most famous circus folks in the world of white tops.

CANNON CITY, Colo., Nov. 22, Time 1:06 Miners caught in the workings of the Fremont Mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, which took fire in an underground mule stable late this afternoon, are being noisted to the surface one by one thruogh an air shaft which offers the only way of escape from the burning mine.

More than 160 have reached the surface and the mine officials declare that all but two of the men employed under ground have been communica ted with and are safe so far. It is hoped these two also are safe. The fire has been driven to the main haulage shaft by ventilating air currents and the main shaft is now burning flercely.

Many of the miners still under ground have bratticed themselves in, in chambers where the air is good and will wait rescue parties before at-tempting to reach the air shafts. The main passages are full of smoke and they were ordered to wait until the age before attempting to escape.

The special train carrying the rescue cars of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company and the government will ar ve about 11:30 tonight.

As soon as the train arrives, trained rescue men with oxygen helmets will be sent down to convoy the impris oned miners to the surface. As soon as all have been taken out, the venti-lating currents will be shut off to stifle the fire and helmet men will be sent down to fight the flames.

HE "SHOT" THE CAPTAIN.

When the soldiers at Fort Riley ere waiting for orders to go either to the Philippines or Cuba, in the Spanish-American war, a small army of war correspondents descended upon the big reservation. They wrote all sorts of military yawns, from guesses and estimates on where this regiment would go and when and how, to the number of times that a Gatlin gun could perforate a man before the said man was prone upon the ground.

Among these war correspondents was Charles Barnes, now state superintendent of insurance. He was work ing on a Topeka newspaper at the time. He worked hard and got away with some good stuff. Among the officers whom he met was Captain Wallace Randolph. Most of the newspaper men who were at Riley during that time met Randolph and every one of them liked him. Randolph came out of the Spanish-American war a brigadier general or something like that. He made those newspaper wirters feel at home when they struck Riley. They told him frankly that they knew nothing about the war game, and hem et them more than half way and helped them to "get onto the ropes" and learn war news.

Barnes liked Randolph and kept asking him for a photograph of himself.
"I want to print it," urged Barnes.
"Never had a picture taken of myself in all my life," said Randolph.

As they were taking together, Randolph was ust climbing into an army buckboard. The day was beastly hot "Really, haven't you a picture of yourself?" asked Barnes again.

"No, sir," said Randolph, "and I will give $25 to any man who takes one of me." Barnes had his coat slung across his shoulder. Just as Randalph made that offer of $25 he rather lifted his head and turned full face on the newspaper man. Quickly Barnes jerked his voat aside. There was a click and Ran-dolph was "took." The future super-intendent of insurance had a 5x6 camera under his arm and he didn't let opportunity knock twice. 'My hat is off to you," said Ran-

"This war business is your business," said Barnes. "Newspaper bus-iness is mine. So is taking pictures this way. Now if you feet that I have outraged the delightful hospitality which you and the other officers have shown me while in this camp you may take this machine with the plate in I'll give it to you readily. as I said before, the war game is your buisness, and this is my way of earn ing my bread and butter.
